Catechetical Instruction from We Walk with

Christ: We have two orders of Divine Liturgy for Sunday: the Divine Liturgy of Saint John Chrysostom and the Divine Liturgy of Saint Basil the Great. The Chrysostom Liturgy is usually celebrated. The Basil Liturgy is celebrated 10 times a year. Each consists of the Proskomydia, the Liturgy of the Word, and the Liturgy of the Sacrifice. During Great Lent, we celebrate the Liturgy of the Presanctified Gifts on weekdays. Each of these liturgies is led by a priest. The offering of bread and wine, which will be transformed into the Body and Blood of Our Lord at the consecration, is prepared for Divine Liturgy in the Proskomydia (Greek for offering). The bread, or prosphora, is cut into a section called the Lamb, a special section for the Mother of God, and particles that represent the orders (angels, prophets, apostles and the like) and the living and the dead. The Lamb is a square portion of the round loaf that has the letters NIKΑ stamped into it. NIKΑ are four Greek letters that mean "Jesus Christ conquers." Remaining portions of the bread are blessed during the Liturgy. This blessed bread, or antidoron in Greek, will be distributed to the faithful at the end of Liturgy. In our tradition, the prosphora consists of flour, water, and yeast. Some other traditions include salt. In the Liturgy, the table of the word prepares us for the table of the Eucharist. The Word of God, the Epistle and Gospel readings, is spiritual nourishment. The Eucharist, the Body and Blood of our Lord Jesus Christ, is our daily bread and spiritual bread from heaven that strengthens us on our journey to heaven. *We Walk with Christ: Youth Catechism, Chapter Two, We Hope, Theme 10 "The Order of the Divine Liturgy," amended.
