Our Church History continued...:

The term "Ukrainian" appeared in the name of the UGCC only in the mid-20th century! Before, the name of this Church was Ecclesia Ruthena (unita), i.e., the Ruthenian Church (united). The designation "Ukrainian" in the name of this Church does not limit it only to the Ukrainian people. Among members of the UGCC there are not only Ukrainians but also English, Americans, Irish, and even Chinese. All of these people have discovered not so much the Church's ethnic dimension as the unique Christian tradition with which the Ukrainian people have enriched the universal Church. This tradition so touched their hearts that, without becoming Ukrainians, they wanted to praise God in the forms (thought in their own languages) shaped in the bosom of this Church. These facts carry an immense worth: what grew within one people has become a universal property. This process testifies both to the maturity of the Church's tradition itself and to the maturity of the people's culture as a whole.

The second part of the name – "Greek Catholic" – appeared due to Maria Theresa, the Empress of Austria. The other identities of the Church are combined in this phrase. First of all, it adopted the faith embodied in one of the Eastern Christian traditions, thus becoming a successor of the theological, canonical, spiritual, and liturgical heritage of the Church of Constantinople. The Ukrainian Greek Catholic Church shares the Byzantine tradition with its sister Greek Catholic Churches in other countries, as well as with the Orthodox Churches.
